Just to clarify what Marcus said below — the 15% is full-year, not per quarter. So Q3 target is 15% above Q3 2023, not 15% on top of Q2. I know last year this got confusing with the archive tab.

Also Sandra confirmed the Q3 2023 baseline is $261,500 (see her report). So Q3 2024 target = $$261,500 \times 1.15 = \mathbf{$300,725}$.

This applies to all service lines right? Or is HVAC excluded because of the Ottawa pilot?

Hi all, I've updated the Target vs Actual tab in the master spreadsheet with the Q1-Q3 2024 targets based on the 15% growth figure. Q4 will be added once finance confirms the seasonal adjustment. The Ottawa pilot (CAD figures) is NOT included in the targets — Director Chen confirmed this separately.

Also reminding everyone: please use the "Q3 2023 Archive" tab for last year's numbers, not the "OLD - do not use" tab. The OLD tab has gross revenue (pre-refunds) and will give you the wrong baseline.

I'll be out on mat leave from Feb 1. Ops will cover the spreadsheet after that. Go easy on them.

Team,

Following our leadership offsite last week, I want to confirm the FY2024 growth ambition we discussed: 15% revenue growth vs FY2023 actuals, across all three service lines.

This is the figure I'll be presenting to the board in March and the one I'll be checking quarterly. Sandra will add this to the master spreadsheet. Please plan your team's capacity accordingly.

I'll expect a Q1 check-in in April. Let's make it a good year.

Following up — just want to make sure we have a confirmed number before Sandra builds the targets tab. Is 15% still the plan or did that change at the offsite?

Hi all — I heard 15% growth mentioned in the Q4 wrap-up but wanted to check: is that the confirmed target for 2024 or is Director Chen still deciding? I want to start building the targets into the spreadsheet but don't want to use a number that changes.

Adding everyone from the ops team so we're all in the loop. Sandra — can you confirm what numbers you're using for 2023 actuals so we all have the same baseline?

Rachel, did leadership confirm the 2024 targets yet? I heard 15% being thrown around at the December all-hands but nothing in writing.
